

Peacock:

Scientific Name: Pavo cristatus

Native Range: India

Fun Fact: When they hatch and for months afterward, male, and female peachicks look identical. The males don't start to develop color until they are about three months old, and it's not until full maturity at three years old that their famous display tails are in full feather